Internal Memo

Dear students and colleagues,

As a result of the ruling of the Federal Ministry of Health of 21 September 2021, free testing will no longer be available in the test centres from this coming Monday. In contrast to the previous announcement, students will now be affected by this, after all, and will no longer be entitled to a free test in a test centre from 11 October. Excluded from this are students who, in accordance with § 4b Point 3, have been given a vaccination which is not on the list of Covid-19 vaccines provided by the Paul Ehrlich Institute on <http://www.pei.de/impfstoffe/covid-19>. This will usually involve international students who continue to be entitled to free testing in the test centres.

So that we are able to conduct as many of our lessons in person as possible, we are offering all students who have not received a vaccination or had the virus the opportunity to have a free test at the university reception by 31/12/2021 at the latest. Forms for test documentation which are to be completed by students are also available here. Reception staff will only confirm the test result with a signature. From Monday 11 October tests will be valid within the university for 48 hours. Teaching staff will check proof of testing and/or vaccination/recovery status at random.

University employees including teaching staff who have not received a vaccination or had the virus must still test themselves twice a week. Free tests continue to be available from the chancellor's secretarial office.

If you test positive, please leave the university grounds immediately and take a PCR test and remain in quarantine until you have the result of this. If the PCR test is also positive, please notify the university students' secretarial office / department staff (for employees and teaching staff) immediately.

Dear students and colleagues,

We will continue to closely monitor the number of Coronavirus cases at the university. If the number of cases increases significantly within a short period, we may have to adapt the above measures at short notice.

We would also like to remind you that a mobile vaccination team will again be visiting the university between 11 am and 4 pm on 18 October 2021. On this day university members will be able to receive their first or second vaccinations without a prior appointment.

Stay healthy!

Kind regards

University Management
